

Introduction

Every young person striving to succeed in the city is like a wandering martial artist embarking on a journey.

The city is their battlefield, and their dreams are their greatest weapon.

Driven by ambition, courage, and determination, they fight to carve out their own place in an ever-changing world.

Urban life is filled with constant challenges, much like the conflicts of the martial world.

No matter how many obstacles arise, how many failures they experience, or how many hardships they endure, these modern heroes move forward with unwavering determination and never look back.

Jianlibao pays tribute to every courageous young adventurer.

May every journey be bold, every challenge embraced, and every victory celebrated.

Enjoy Every Moment. Feel the Energy. Walk the Martial World with Jianlibao.

Market Analysis

PEST Analysis

Political

Government policies continue to support the development of China's food and beverage industry, creating significant opportunities for domestic brands. As a national beverage brand with more than 40 years of history, Jianlibao carries strong emotional value and cultural recognition among Chinese consumers, giving it a competitive advantage over many newer competitors.

Economic

Demand for functional and electrolyte beverages continues to grow steadily as consumers place greater emphasis on health and wellness. As a fast-moving consumer good (FMCG), the beverage industry evolves rapidly alongside changing consumer preferences, requiring continuous product innovation and marketing adaptation.

Social

Consumers increasingly pursue healthier lifestyles while expecting products to deliver both functionality and enjoyable taste. Younger generations actively engage with brands through digital platforms and value emotional connections, cultural relevance and interactive experiences.

Technological

Jianlibao has actively embraced digital transformation in line with China's "New Infrastructure" and Digital Economy initiatives. Expanding digital marketing, online engagement and data-driven communication has become essential for maintaining competitiveness in the rapidly evolving beverage market.

Conclusion

Jianlibao possesses strong brand awareness, technical expertise and national heritage. However, with increasing competition in the electrolyte beverage category, the brand must continue innovating its marketing strategy and brand positioning to maintain market share and strengthen its appeal among younger consumers.

Brand Analysis

Brand Characteristics

Jianlibao is formulated without phosphoric acid or caffeine and contains alkaline electrolytes and natural linden honey. The product rapidly replenishes hydration and energy, helping reduce fatigue and support physical recovery while promoting a healthier lifestyle.

Brand Positioning

The brand primarily targets young consumers and sports enthusiasts. Its communication strategy focuses on youthfulness, vitality and active living.

Brand Values

Enjoy Every Moment. Feel the Energy. Healthy & Active Living.

Survey findings indicate that Jianlibao enjoys high brand awareness and strong recognition as a classic Chinese beverage brand. However, current marketing effectiveness remains limited, particularly among younger audiences. Improvements in packaging design and brand communication present significant opportunities to modernise the brand image.

Overall, Jianlibao combines strong functionality with national brand heritage, but relatively low purchase intention among Generation Z suggests the need for more engaging marketing initiatives, contemporary packaging and stronger integration with popular digital culture.

Competitor Analysis

The campaign compares Jianlibao with three major competitors:

- Wahaha
- Alienergy
- Dongpeng Energy

These brands position themselves around health, hydration and active lifestyles while offering products priced between RMB 4–6.5 for approximately 550 ml bottles.

Each competitor possesses unique strengths:

- Wahaha enjoys strong brand awareness and multiple flavour options but suffers from lower market share and relatively higher pricing.
- Alienergy features modern packaging and diverse flavours but lacks strong brand recognition.
- Dongpeng Energy offers affordable pricing and high awareness but faces challenges related to portability and customer loyalty.

Overall, competitor analysis suggests that while Jianlibao maintains strong brand recognition, its current product positioning and communication are not sufficiently aligned with younger consumer expectations. A more youth-oriented marketing strategy is required to strengthen market influence.

Consumer Analysis

Target Audience

- Generation Z (16–35 years old)
- Young professionals
- University students
- Sports and fitness enthusiasts

Consumer Characteristics

Young consumers recognise Jianlibao as a trusted domestic brand offering excellent value for money.

Sports enthusiasts appreciate its ability to replenish hydration and electrolytes after physical activity.

Office workers also consume Jianlibao to combat fatigue and maintain hydration during long working hours.

Preferred media platforms include:

- Bilibili
- Douyin
- Weibo
- Xiaohongshu (RED)

Consumers prioritise:

- Value for money
- Healthy ingredients
- Great taste

Research also reveals relatively low purchasing rates during sporting occasions and limited online sales performance, indicating that Jianlibao's functional benefits require clearer communication while its digital presence should be strengthened.

Consumer Personas

Xiaolin

- 18 years old
- University student
- Zhejiang

A passionate supporter of Chinese domestic brands who values product quality and affordability.

"I will continue supporting Chinese brands and look forward to seeing them become even stronger."

Mr Wang

- 35 years old
- Corporate employee
- Guangdong

An enthusiastic fan of traditional Chinese martial arts culture who believes martial arts represent an important part of Chinese cultural heritage.

"I hope martial arts culture can once again inspire younger generations."

Xiao Chen

- 24 years old
- Young professional
- Jilin

An active fitness enthusiast who regularly chooses functional beverages after exercise to replenish hydration and nutrients.

"People who exercise care much more about ingredients and functionality than ordinary consumers."

Overall, the target audience consists primarily of health-conscious young adults aged 16–35 who value affordability, taste and active lifestyles while embracing determination, ambition and continuous self-improvement.

SWOT Analysis

Strengths

- Strong brand recognition and credibility
- Iconic Chinese national brand
- Pioneer of electrolyte beverages in China
- Strong emotional connection with consumers

Weaknesses

- Outdated packaging and unclear brand image
- Counterfeit products affecting brand reputation
- Rising raw material costs
- Limited product variety and flavour options

Opportunities

- Growing demand for healthy functional beverages
- Expanding digital media and diversified communication channels
- Increasing consumer focus on wellness and fitness

Threats

- Intensifying competition from emerging beverage brands
- Risk of substitution by competitors such as Lehu and Fanta
- Brand messaging lacks clear differentiation from competing functional beverages